DETAILED ACTION

Continued Examination Under 37 CFR 1.114

A request for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, including the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e), was filed in this application after allowance or after an Office action under Ex Parte Quayle, 25 USPQ 74, 453 O.G. 213 (Comm'r Pat. 1935). Since this application is eligible for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, and the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e) has been timely paid, prosecution in this application has been reopened pursuant to 37 CFR 1.114. Applicant's submission filed on November 20, 2003 has been entered.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1 and 3 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over European patent 512118, submitted by applicant on November 20, 2003.

EP'118 discloses a rust-resistant steel example in Table 4 on page 8 containing 6-15ppm Ca which is within the claimed Ca range of 0.0005% or more, and also contains an extremely low S content of 0.004 to 0.008%. Even though prior art does not specifically teach that at least 80% of inclusions of 2 microns or larger will have an equilibrium sulfur soluble amount of 0.03wt% or less as recited by claim 1, such would be expected since similar process and properties are obtain. Note that similar to the present invention, EP'118 alloy is produced by deoxidizing with Al and Ti followed by adding Ca to form inclusions  $\text{CaO-Al}_2\text{O}_3$  with CaS around it and then the CaS is hydrolyzed and dissolved in water, therefore having a high solubility level, see lines 15 to 54 on page 6. Moreover, EP'118 discloses improving rust resistance, low surface defects, and nozzle-clogging reduction during processing .

Even though prior art does not teach the process equations recited in claim 3, such would not be closely met, since the properties attributed to the equations are taught by prior art.
